

Subject and Object Pronouns

*A pronoun is a word that takes the place of a noun.
Without pronouns we would have to keep repeating our nouns.*

*We don't say: My friend is from Japan. Every day I talk to my friend.
Instead, we say: My friend is from Japan. Every day I talk to her.*

The personal pronouns I, you, he, she, it, we and they are used as the subject of a verb in a sentence, while me, you, him, her, it, us and them take the object of the sentence.

*My name is Sara. I celebrate Christmas with my family. – The pronoun I is the subject.
My friend is from turkey. My parents like her. – The pronoun her is the object.*

Remember: The subject of a sentence is the person, animal or thing that does the action shown by the verb. The object of a sentence is the person, animal or thing that receives the action shown by the verb.

Personal pronouns are divided into three groups:

First person (the person speaking),

Second person (the person spoken to)

Third person (the person, animal or thing spoken about), in singular and plural forms.

Use these tables to help you remember:

	Subject	Object
First Person Singular	I	me
Second Person Singular	you	you
Third Person Singular	he / she / it	him / her / it

First Person Plural	we	us
Second Person Plural	you	you
Third Person Plural	they	them
